

What could you do with greater visibility?

In the restaurant industry, more visibility means more power to adapt.

When your industry is going through significant changes, you need the ability to determine how your business is doing, pinpoint any problems and quickly take advantage of emerging opportunities.

Heartland Restaurant's point-of-sale (POS) system doesn't just give you greater visibility into restaurant operations, but it also paints a full picture by incorporating sales, inventory, labor and exception reports. All in real time and at no added cost.

Start exploring to reveal how Heartland delivers the valuable insights your restaurant needs.

High level? In the weeds? Time for a better view.

Tired of reporting that gives you information that's either too broad or too granular to be useful? Heartland makes it easy to choose a view that provides as much or as little information as you want.

And with centralized reporting and hierarchy grouping, corporate leaders and franchise managers can pull up the views that are most relevant to them.

Data that makes a difference right away

Real-time inventory, menu and sales data give you the power to spot what's working and quickly course-correct.

That means you can make sure you have enough staff members or inventory and change menu items on the fly, from wherever you are.

Convenient, reliable, secure reporting

Why wait for a 90-day summary when you can start getting reports from day one? With Heartland, you can store reports down to the item level and track orders, payment, customer history and operations in real time.

And because our restaurant data is continually backed up and secured with end-to-end encryption, you don't have to worry about losing valuable information when you need it most.

Great for your customers

With Heartland's system, each restaurant prep station has a unified view of all orders (online, phone and other order sources), helping ensure your service is streamlined.

Better for you and your staff

Empower employees to work smarter with a system that automates functions that were previously manual. And with no need to re-enter and report sales data to an accounting hub, you and your staff can save time after closing.

Heartland's system also gives you insights into how individual employees are performing, so you can spot any problems and quickly address them.

A modern solution for future-facing restaurants

Our cloud-based system makes reporting accessible anytime, anywhere, from any Internet-enabled device. Even if you're offline, you can still view the information you need, including the critical daily report.

Heartland's reporting is provided at no additional costs, and with no need to integrate extra software.

If you're looking to bring all your operations together, gain actionable insights and stay competitive, Heartland's POS system is the answer.

Our system gives you end-to-end visibility with built-in reporting that shows you the full picture, so you can quickly spot the opportunities that keep your business healthy—today and well into the future.
